This article, which will be updated as developments warrant, lists actions Congress, governors, federal and state agencies, and businesses are taking to protect consumers in light of the COVID-19 epidemic. These actions include suspensions on foreclosures, evictions, and terminations of telecommunications and utility service, elimination of interest and forbearance on student loan payments, limits on debt collection, and more.

This article is limited to actions and orders that have been officially announced as final decisions. For information about actions that have been proposed by NCLC, other organizations, or members of Congress, see NCLC’s web page on COVID-19 & Consumer Protections [1].

Because of the rapidly changing reactions to the current epidemic, this list cannot be complete, but an effort has been made to be as up to date as possible. Readers are encouraged to email publications@nclc.org with additional protections that have been enacted in their state, county, or municipality.

NCLC during this emergency is making available to the public for free the digital version of NCLC’s most popular publication, Surviving Debt [2] (2020).

Just click here. [2] Surviving Debt is geared for consumers, counselors, paralegals, and attorneys new to consumer law. The 288-page book explains steps that families in financial distress can take concerning foreclosures, repossessions, utility terminations, landlord evictions, debt collection, medical debt, student loans, credit reporting, credit cards, criminal justice debt, and a number of other topics of special current interest.

NCLC is also providing during the emergency deep discounts on our consumer law treatises, which are all available in print and digital formats. The first chapter of each treatise’s digital version is also available free to the public. For more details, go here [3].

The CARES Act [4] was signed into law on March 27, 2020. This article describes the main CARES Act provisions affecting consumer protection and links to specific Act provisions. This article also lists many actions by state governors, federal and state agencies, businesses and others that provide consumer protections during this crisis.

Federal Foreclosure and Eviction Suspensions; Mortgage Loan Forbearance

CARES Act Relief from Foreclosure: CARES Act § 4022 [5] provides foreclosure relief for “federally-backed loans,” which means loans (for 1–4 family properties) purchased, securitized, owned, insured, or guaranteed by Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac, or owned, insured, or guaranteed by FHA, VA, or USDA. See § 4022(a)(2) [5]. To determine if a mortgage loan is “federally-backed,” see “Determining If a Mortgage Loan is Federally Backed,” infra. About one-third of residential mortgages are not federally backed and thus not covered by the CARES Act. These homeowners (and tenants) will have to rely on future federal action or state orders, described at “State Limitations on Foreclosures and Evictions,” infra, or on voluntary actions by mortgage servicers.

Under the CARES Act, a servicer of federally backed mortgage loan may not: initiate any judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure process, move for a foreclosure judgment, order a sale, or execute a foreclosure-related eviction or foreclosure sale. This provision is not limited to borrowers with a COVID-19 related hardship. See § 4022(c)(2) [5].

The provision lasted until May 17, 2020. Nevertheless, the moratorium has been extended to June 30, 2020 by guidelines issues by Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, FHA, VA and USDA:

- HUD Mortgagee Letter 2020-13 (May 14, 2020) [6];
- USDA Rural Development Bulletin, Foreclosure Moratorium Extension and Additional Guidance for Servicing Loans Impacted by COVID-19 (May 14, 2020) [7];
- VA Circular 26-20-18, Extended Foreclosure Moratorium for Borrowers Affected by COVID-19 (May 14, 2020) [8];
The CARES Act, enacted on March 27, 2020, includes provisions that prohibit landlords from filing eviction actions or charging additional fees for nonpayment of rent during a specified period for owners of single-family property and for owners of multifamily properties with five or more units. During the 120-day period beginning on the Act’s March 27, 2020 enactment date, lessors of “covered dwellings” may not file a court action for eviction or charge additional fees for nonpayment of rent. See CARES Act § 4024(b) [13]. After that 120-day period, the lessor cannot require the tenant to vacate until it gives the tenant a thirty-day notice to quit. See § 4024(c) [13]. A covered dwelling is one where the building is secured by a federally backed mortgage. It is thus imperative to determine if a loan is federally backed and which investor is the backer: Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, Federal Housing Administration (FHA), Veterans Affairs (VA), and the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Rural Home Service (RHS). The following tools let one quickly determine which investor backs a particular mortgage loan or participates in certain federal housing programs. See § 4024(a) [13]. A large number of governors have also initiated suspensions of all residential evictions in their states, as listed in the lookup tools.

For help to see if a tenant qualifies for CARES Act protections because Fannie or Freddie back the owner’s mortgage, use Fannie Mae’s Multifamily Loan Lookup Tool [14] and Freddie Mac’s Multifamily Loan Lookup Tool [15]. A tenant listed in neither may still qualify for CARES Act or state protections. Renters found in the lookup tools can get support at the Fannie Mae Helpline at 877-542-9723 or the Freddie Mac Helpline at 800-404-3097.

The National Housing Law Center provides a website [16] with extensive materials on tenant protections during the current crisis.

Determining if a Mortgage Loan Is Federally Backed: The CARES Act foreclosure and forbearance provisions apply only to “federally backed mortgages.” In addition, prior to CARES Act enactment different federally backed mortgage investors had announced different foreclosure policies (see “Links to Foreclosure Suspensions by Federally Backed Mortgage Investors in Effect Prior to the CARES Act,” infra). It is thus imperative to determine if a loan is federally backed and which investor is the backer: Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, Federal Housing Administration (FHA), Veterans Affairs (VA), and the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Rural Home Service (RHS). The following tools let one quickly determine which investor backs a particular homeowner’s mortgage loan.

- Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac have easy loan look-up websites to determine if they own a mortgage. See https://ww3.freddiemac.com/loanlookup/ [18] and https://www.knowyouroptions.com/loanlookup# [19].
- To determine if a loan is FHA-insured, look for an FHA case number on the mortgage document, specific language in the mortgage and note forms, or through the payment of an FHA premium on the mortgage statement. In some cases, unfortunately, loans may have been stripped of their FHA-insured status; call HUD’s National Servicing Center at 877-622-8525 if there are questions.
- A VA-guaranteed loan also has specific language in the note and mortgage identifying it as a VA loan, and there are fees paid to the VA noted in closing documents.
- While a borrower with a mortgage directly extended by the RHS will be very familiar with the agency, homeowners with privately serviced RHS-guaranteed loans often do not know the loan’s status. If an RHS-guaranteed loan is suspected, directly ask the servicer to review the homeowners’ closing documents.

Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, FHA, and VA to allow appraisals without interior inspections:

- Fannie Mae: Lender Letter (LL-2020-04) (March 23, 2020) [117]
- Freddie Mac: Bulletin 2020-5 [118]
- VA: Circular: 26-20-11 [119]
- FHA: Mortgagee Letter 2020-05 [120]

The USDA [121] has waived or relaxed certain parts of the application process for Single-Family Housing Direct Loans, including site assessments, and has extended the time period that certificates of eligibility are valid.

Federal Bank Regulators have announced [122] (April 14, 2020) relaxation of appraisal rules.

National Credit Union Administration has issued an interim final rule [123] relaxing the appraisal process.

The Appraisal Institute [124] and the Appraisal Foundation [125] have extensive information on how COVID-19 is affecting appraisers.

Student Loans, Other Debts Owed to the Government

CARES Act Relief for Federal Student Loan Borrowers: CARES Act § 3513 [126] provides relief for student loan borrowers with Direct Loans and FFEL loans currently owned by the U.S. Department of Education. Importantly, this act does not protect all borrowers. Borrowers with Perkins loans or FFEL loans held by banks or guaranty agencies are not protected by the CARES Act. An estimated 9 million student loan borrowers or more are not covered by the Act.

Direct Loan and Department-held FFEL borrowers will have their payments suspended (a status called “administrative forbearance”) through September 30, 2020. See CARES Act § 3513(a) [126]. While student loan payments are suspended, the loans will not accrue any interest. Borrowers may also ask their servicer to refund any payments made during the COVID-19 suspension. During the suspension period, the Department of Education will treat each month that passes as if the loans had been paid for purposes of public service loan forgiveness, income driven repayment plans, and loan rehabilitation. See § 3513(b), (c) [126].

The Act also temporarily suspends involuntary collection of covered loans—no wage garnishments, tax intercepts, offset of federal benefits, or any other collection activity will occur through September 30, 2020. See § 3513(d), (e) [126]. Covered borrowers will be provided notices of all of these rights within fifteen days of the CARES Act’s March 27th enactment. See § 3513(g) [126]. Beginning August 1, 2020, the Department will send out a minimum of six notices alerting borrowers that their loans are about to re-enter repayment. See § 3513(g) [126]. For more detail, see this article [127] from NCLC’s Student Loan Borrower Assistance website.

The Department of Education Information Related to the Coronavirus Relief for Students, Borrowers, and Parents: [128]

The Department of Education’s website provides more detail on the suspension of interest accrual and loan payments, with additional Q&A on other topics relevant to students in school, student loan borrowers, and their parents.

Other Federal Agencies’ Actions Supplementing the CARES Act:

Treasury Offset Program Technical Bulletin # F2020-7 [129] (March 26, 2020); Effective immediately, the U.S. Department of the Treasury has exempted the Social Security Administration’s (SSA) benefit payments from offset. This exemption will remain in effect through September 21, 2020. During this time, SSA benefit payments will not be offset to satisfy delinquent federal non-tax debts in the U.S. Treasury Offset Program. This is largely duplicative of CARES Act student loan provisions for Direct Loan and certain FFEL student borrowers but it also protects other student loan borrowers and others owing government debts, such as those owing mortgage deficiency judgments arising from FHA loans. For more on federal government collection of debts, see NCLC’s Collection Actions Chapter 10. [130]

Protection of CARES Act Payments to Individuals: The CARES Act provides for $1200 payments to many Americans with an additional $500 for each child. These amounts are generally protected from seizure by the United States for debts owed to the United States. See CARES Act § 2201(d) [131].

Private Student Loan Relief During COVID-19: A number of state attorney general offices and nineteen private student loan lenders [132] have reached an agreement to offer the following forms of relief for private student loan borrowers: a minimum of ninety days of forbearance, waiving late payment fees, ensuring that no borrower is subject to negative credit reporting, ceasing debt collection lawsuits for ninety days, and working with borrower to enroll them in other borrower assistance programs, such as income-based repayment.

State Actions Regarding Utility Service and Telecommunications

Suspension of Lifeline Terminations. The FCC, In the Matter of Lifeline and Link Up Reform and Modernization [133], WC Docket No. 11-42 (March 30, 2020) waives certain rules so as to ensure that consumers enrolled in the Lifeline program do not lose access, at least until May 29, 2020. The Lifeline program provides qualifying low-income consumers discounts on voice or broadband Internet access service. The FCC is suspending rules that are the most common reasons for consumers to lose Lifeline access: the usage requirement and general involuntary de-enrollment procedures, and recertification and reverification rules. To ensure existing Lifeline subscribers do not lose service, the order directs the Universal Service Administrative Company to pause any involuntary de-enrollment of existing subscribers.

Free and low cost broadband: For information on company voluntary offers, see here [134] and here [135].

State Utility Commission Suspension of Utility Disconnections: Almost half the states have imposed a moratorium on utility terminations. The list is growing, but as of now government bodies have ordered disconnection suspensions statewide in:

- Alaska;
- Arizona (cooperative agreement with the state’s largest electric utilities);
- California;
  [Note also that the California Public Utility Commission voted unanimously to adopt a Phase I decision in the proceeding to consider new approaches to disconnections and reconnections, Rulemaking 18-07-005 [136] (June 11, 2020), providing for the establishment of arrearage management programs, improved serious illness protections and extreme weather protections, 12-month payment plans, a utility-based disconnection cap, eliminating establishment, reestablishment deposits and reconnection fees.]
- Connecticut;
- District of Columbia;
- Illinois;
  [A June 10 Stipulation and Settlement [137] with the all major electric and gas utilities serving Illinois was signed and filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission (which is expected to approve the settlement on June 18th) will provide (1) extension of the COVID-19 moratorium on utility disconnections until September; (2) debt forgiveness for low-income customers, including undocumented persons; (3) reconnection of customers who were previously disconnected for nonpayment prior to the moratorium; and (4) required 24-month deferred payment arrangements for customers self-certifying as experiencing financial hardship, with no down payments.]

- Iowa;
- Kansas;
- Kentucky;
- Louisiana;
- Maine;
- Maryland;
- Massachusetts;

Important Note re Municipal Utilities and Rural Electric Cooperatives (RECs): In a few states, the state PUC’s billing and termination rules apply to municipals, but, as a general rule, municipal utilities and RECs are not regulated by the state’s PUC. Whether the above state PUC utility termination suspension orders apply to municipal utilities and RECs depends on the state, who issued the order, that state’s emergency laws, and the wording of the proclamation order.

These unregulated utilities would be covered if the order is issued by a governor, and that state’s laws give the governor broad enough power to cover not just the regulated companies but virtually any business, and if the wording of the order/proclamation makes it clear that it applies to ALL utility providers. In addition, municipal utilities may abide voluntarily by a state suspension order even if it is not legal binding on them, or may on their own decide to suspend terminations. For example, Anchorage Alaska’s water and wastewater utility and Anchorage’s Municipal Light & Power have declared a moratorium on all shutoffs.

Voluntary Company Suspension of Utility Terminations: Even when not required by the state commission, a number of utilities are suspending terminations, including but not limited to: Ameren, American Electric Power, Dominion Energy, Duke Energy, Eversource, FirstEnergy, Georgia Power, NV Energy, PECO, PG&E, Southern California Edison, and Xcel Energy. The trade association for many utility companies, Edison Electric Institute, announced that its members are suspending electricity disconnections for nonpayment nationwide. A list of EEI members is available here [140] and a map of their service territories is available here [141].

More About Utility Suspensions: Some of the above mandated and voluntary suspensions of service also apply to suspension of late fees, but others do not. Some utilities are voluntarily reconnecting disconnected customers and Wisconsin, for one, is requiring reconnection for previously disconnected customers as long as utility companies can do so in a safe manner. Some of the mandated suspensions of disconnections are short-lived, such as only through the end of March, while others are open-ended. Some state moratoriums also apply to telecommunication services and some states have issued moratoriums specifically preventing termination of telecommunication or cable services. See, e.g., District of Columbia, Kansas, and Maryland.

Arrearage Management: Eversource (a large Massachusetts utility) has agreed to change their arrearage management rules to help customers unable to make their monthly arrearage management plan (AMP) payments. Eversource will not remove a customer from the AMP, even if the customer misses payments during the emergency. At the end of the emergency, Eversource will work out a new monthly payment amount and schedule so the customer can continue to receive AMP benefits (monthly write-downs of the arrearage). For more details, email charak@nclc.org.

Door-to-Door Sales by Competitive Suppliers:

- Illinois Commerce Commission issued two emergency orders [142] banning in-person marketing and sales of electric and gas energy supply, including door-to-door marketing.
- Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities has issued a March 24 letter [143] requesting that all Competitive Suppliers and Licensed Competitive Supply Brokers cease door-to-door marketing activities until the Department rescinds this request or the state of emergency in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is lifted, whichever comes first.
- Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission’s Moratorium [144] re: Supplier Door-to-Door and In-Person Marketing Proclamation of Disaster Emergency- COVID-19, limits in-person sale of competitive electric service. Other emergency proclamations may limit person-to-person sales contacts as well.
• Other emergency business closure proclamations may limit competitive suppliers’ person-to-person sales contacts as well.

State Limits on Collection Lawsuits, Post-Judgment Remedies, Debt Collection, Repossessions (Private Creditors)

A state-by-state summary of protections from judgment creditors [145], including exemptions for each of the fifty states for wages, bank accounts, homesteads, motor vehicles, other personal property, benefits, retirement plans, insurance, extraterritoriality, and opt-out from bankruptcy exemptions. This appendix from NCLC’s Collection Actions [145] is free to the public only for a limited time during the current emergency.

Alaska: Senate Bill 241 [33] includes a moratorium on repossessions (sec. 26).

Arizona: Attorney General Request [146] (March 19, 2020): Urges “all financial and lending institutions who serve Arizonians to cease repossessions for at least ninety days.

District of Columbia: D.C. Act 23-286 [46] Section 207 (April 13, 2020) during the emergency and for sixty days thereafter, no creditor or collector shall initiate or threaten a collection lawsuit; initiate, threaten, or act upon a garnishment, seizure, attachment, or repossession; visit, threaten to visit, or confront the consumer in person. No debt collector during that period shall communicate with the consumer. Certain exceptions apply.

Fulton County, Georgia. Magistrate Court has suspended personal property foreclosures [147] from March 14 to April 14, 2020.

Macon-Bibb County, Georgia. Civil and Magistrate Courts will not serve new garnishment orders. See https://www.maconbibb.us/covid19/ [148] guidance listed under the “Slowing the Spread of COVID-19” list in the drop-down entitled Sheriff’s Office of Civil & Magistrate Court.

Illinois: Governor’s Executive Order 2020-16 [149] (March 26, 2020) prohibits self-help repossessions from March 27, 2020 through the end of the declared emergency.

Maryland: Governor’s Executive Order 20-04-03-01 [75] (April 3, 2020) orders a moratorium on repossessions.

Massachusetts: The Massachusetts Attorney General on March 27, 2020 issued emergency regulation 940 C.M.R. 35.00 [151] regarding debt collection. One provision applies to creditors and debt collectors and the other provision only to debt collectors’ telephone calls. Both provisions apply for 90 days or when the state of emergency expires, whichever comes first.

The provision applicable to creditors and collectors provides that it is unfair or deceptive for any creditor or debt collector to threaten or act upon: a new collection lawsuit; garnishment, seizure, or attachment of the debtor's wages or property; a motor vehicle repossession; a capias warrant; a visit to the consumer's household or place of employment; or communicate in person with the consumer. Exceptions are made for mortgage loans, rent, and utilities.

The provision applicable to debt collector phone calls declares it unfair and deceptive for a debt collector to initiate a telephone communication, either live or recorded, to the debtor's residence, cellular telephone, or other telephone number provided by the debtor. Exceptions are made for communications initiated by the debtor, for informing the debtor of a rescheduled court hearing, or for debts involving mortgage loans or rent payments.

Minnesota Governor's Emergency Executive Order 20-50 [153] (May 4, 2020) suspends issuance and service of garnishment orders and also debtor examinations.
Las Vegas, Nevada, Justice Court, effective March 17 has ordered a stay of existing writs and requires any seized property frozen as of the date of the order to be released back to the debtor.

New Mexico, Supreme Court Order No. 20-8500-021 5, In the Matter of the Stay of Issuance of Writs of Garnishment and Writs of Execution in Consumer Debt Collection Cases During the Covid-19 Public Health Emergency [156] (June 5, 2020) suspends issuance of new writs of garnishment and writs of execution for consumer debt collection in district, magistrate and metropolitan court cases effective June 8. The suspension will remain in effect until a further order.

New York, Brooklyn [157] has adjourned all non-essential court dates (including payment dates) for either 60 or 90 days; no warrants or civil judgments will be issued for unpaid court debt in the meantime. District Attorney Eric Gonzalez also announced he won’t prosecute low level crimes.

Pennsylvania: PA Care Package [158] (March 30, 2020): Optional partnership between the Pennsylvania Attorney General and financial institutions in the state, recommending a vehicle repossession moratorium for sixty days.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Common Pleas and Municipal Courts President Judge Administrative Order No. 17 of 2020 [159] (April 22, 2020) stays new garnishment orders and service of existing orders, and provides that consumers have a right to an emergency hearing on any frozen bank accounts.

Puerto Rico: R.C. del S. 489 [104] (March 24, 2020) requires forbearance on car, personal and other consumer loans if consumer requests.

Texas: Supreme Court Tenth Emergency Order Regarding the Covid-19 State of Disaster [160] (April 9, 2020) suspends all service of a writ of garnishment until after May 7, 2020, which date may be extended.

Auto lender voluntary actions: See this list of voluntary actions by auto lenders [163].

The impact of court closures on judicial foreclosures, collection actions, and the like. Closure of courts to in-person hearings and limits on telephone/video hearings to essential matters may place a hold on judicial foreclosures, manufactured home replevin actions, collection lawsuits, and requests for post-judgment remedies. However, depending on their specific terms, these court closure orders and stays may not automatically stop the running of certain important deadlines, such as post-foreclosure redemption periods.

Is a debt collector a non-essential business? A list of state orders for the closure of non-essential businesses is found here [164]. When a state closes non-essential businesses, does this relate to debt collectors? This may depend on the specific wording of a governor’s order. Nevada explicitly defines collectors as a non-essential business, but West Virginia’s order provides that they are an essential business. While Illinois and Minnesota do not treat debt collectors as essential businesses, and state law prohibits debt collectors from calling debtors from the collectors’ homes, the states have issued interpretations allowing collectors to do so. See this industry report [165].

Another issue is that debt collectors may be calling from out-of-state, and thus whether they should be closed may depend on a closure order in their state of residence and not the state where the consumer resides. On the other hand, a state’s closure order may apply to out-of-state debt collectors who are licensed in the state that issued the closure order.

Another question is whether debt collectors can communicate from their homes even if they cannot communicate from the debt collector’s usual place of business. Existing state law may limit locations from which collectors can initiate communications. Washington State is a good example. Washington State’s shelter in place order that went into effect March 26 requires non-essential businesses to close in person operations. Since debt collectors in Washington are only licensed to work at their designated collection offices, this should stop Washington State debt collectors from communicating with consumers.

Minnesota debt collectors were in the same position, but the Commissioner of Commerce issued a guidance [166] effectively allowing collectors to call debtors from home under certain conditions.

A debt collection industry trade association, ACA International, has a list providing for a number of states [links to and summaries of business closure orders] [167].

What about repossessions? Unclear is whether a vehicle repossession is in violation of a cease business order, and also whether the seizure in these conditions should be considered a breach of the peace, particularly if the repossession occurs while the debtor or others are present.

Price Gouging

A. Alaska: Senate Bill 241 [33] includes a provision prohibiting as an unfair and deceptive practice price increases over 10% for specified categories of products, unless responding to an increase in costs related to the product (sec. 26).

Maryland on March 19 signed into law House Bill 1663 [168] that during the state of emergency prohibits retailers from unfair price gouging for essential goods like food, fuel, medicine, medical supplies, and cleaning products, and affirms that such action is subject to the enforcement by the attorney general.

Massachusetts Attorney General just issued an emergency regulation [169], amending 940 Code Mass. Regs. 3.18 to expand the prohibition against price gouging from covered petroleum products to now include “any goods or services necessary for the health, safety, or welfare of the public.”

Wisconsin, the Department of Financial Institutions has announced [170] that payday and licensed lenders risk license suspension or revocation for increasing interest rates, fees, or costs of borrowing in response to COVID-19.

To see other state restrictions on price gouging in an emergency, see NCLC’s Unfair and Deceptive Acts and Practices §§ 4.3.11 [171] and 8.5.1.5 [172].

Collection of Civil and Criminal Debt Owed to the State

A state-by-state tracker for COVID-19 fines and fees suspensions is found at the Fines & Fees Justice Center [173], by scrolling down past their policy recommendations.

California: California Judicial Council issued California Rules of the Court Emergency Rules (April 6, 2020) to eliminate bail requirement all criminal cases with enumerated exceptions. [35]

This policy will go into effect immediately.

Kentucky: The governor has suspended [175] state-enforced collection methods, including releasing bank and wage levies, license and vehicle registration revocations, and providing a 3-month hold on payments for taxpayers and individuals if they call and report they cannot make installment payments due to COVID-19.

Louisiana: 12th Judicial District Court has suspended [176] the requirement to make scheduled payments of fines, fees and court costs until further notice.

Maine courts have vacated [177] all outstanding warrants for unpaid court fines and fees and for failure to appear for hearings.

Massachusetts has suspended collection of debt owed to the state at least until April 7, 2020.
Minnesota’s judiciary [178] will stop sending out late penalty notices and assessing the late penalties for all citations; halt the automated process by which a person’s license is suspended for failure to appear; and stop referring past-due payment cases to the Department of Revenue for collections.

New York’s attorney general on March 16 ordered [179] state debt collection suspended for at least 30 days, state student and medical debt is automatically suspended, consumers with other state debts can apply for relief at [180].

New York: Some parts of the state have temporarily stopped processing new driver’s license suspensions and associated fees for failure to pay traffic tickets or for failure to appear at a traffic court hearing.

New York, Buffalo is suspending late fees [181] and interest on parking, traffic [182] and other city accounts (e.g., utilities).

North Carolina, the Attorney General announced [183] on March 26 he is suspending collection of debt owed to state agencies.

Osage County, Oklahoma on March 16 placed a hold [184] on most outstanding warrants.

Oregon, Judicial Department has issued an order [185] suspending the collection of court fees, fines, and costs, including imposing late fees, suspending driver licenses for nonpayment, imposing collection fees, referring new cases to collection, garnishing court debt. The courts also have expanded authority to waive fees and are strongly encouraged to waive, reduce, or suspend court debt payments for debtors with limited financial resources.

Reading Pennsylvania announced several fines and fees reforms [186].

- Suspend new late penalties on citations.
- Extend deadlines for submitting citation protests.
- No barnacles or boots will be placed on cars from March 18-31, 2020.
- Discontinued the issuance of new parking tickets.
- Suspension of parking meter enforcement.
- RPA will allow residents to park their cars free of charge 24/7 for next 2 weeks.

Banking and Bank-Extended Consumer Credit

The federal regulators that oversee federal banks are encouraging banks to work with their customers to help them meet their financial needs, including waiving certain fees, increasing credit limits for some borrowers, and offering payment accommodations including modifying terms on current loans due to temporary financial hardship due to COVID-19. For more information, see materials by the Office of the Comptroller [187] and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation [188].

California: The Commissioner of Business Oversight issued guidance to California Financial Institutions [189] on March 22, 2020, encouraging them during the state of emergency: to waive ATM fees, overdraft fees, and credit card late payment fees and also early withdrawal penalties on time deposits. They are also encouraged to increase ATM daily cash withdrawal limits; ease restrictions on cashing out-of-state and non-customer checks; increase credit card limits for creditworthy borrowers; and offer payment accommodations.

Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation in a March 30, 2020 release [190] “strongly urges banks and credit unions to respond to borrowers affected by the current economic environment” to offer payment accommodations, provide new loans on favorable terms, waiving fees, increasing ATM withdrawal limits, easing check-cashing, and increasing credit card limits.

New Jersey Department of Banking and Insurance announced [90] on March 28, 2020, that Citigroup, JP Morgan Chase, US Bank, Wells Fargo, Bank of America, and over forty other federal and state-chartered banks, credit unions have committed to waiving certain bank fees including early CD withdrawals.

New York Governor’s Executive Order No. 202.9 [97] charges the New York State Department of Financial Services to ensure that licensed or regulated entities grant consumers in the State of New York forbearance of loan payments for 90 days for any person or entity facing a financial hardship due to COVID-19. NYSDFS emergency regulations [96] will modify or restrict ATM, overdraft and credit card late fees charged by licensed or regulated entities.
Note: Many banks agree to waive various fees for customers upon request. The best course is to contact a consumer’s bank and request waiver of fees because of a COVID-19 related hardship. The bank is not required to do so, but many banks will. A bank-by-bank listing [191] of virtually all banks and the actions each bank is voluntarily taking.

Bankruptcy Changes

CARES Act § 1113(b) [192] excludes stimulus checks and other payments from being considered as income for purposes of the chapter 7 means test and for determining in chapter 13 cases the amount to pay unsecured creditors. These payments are excluded from “currently monthly income” under Bankruptcy Code § 101(10A) and “disposable income” under § 1325(b)(2). This permits debtors in bankruptcy cases to keep stimulus payments and not have them used to pay creditors or deny bankruptcy relief. This provision applies to any case filed before or after enactment of the CARES Act.

However, the CARES Act does not create an exemption for these payments. Because stimulus payments are refundable tax credits, they may be property of the debtor’s bankruptcy estate depending in part on the timing of when they are received, not unlike the receipt of tax refunds and EITC payments. To the extent stimulus payments are estate property, attorneys should attempt to claim them as exempt under available federal or state exemptions, such as wildcard exemptions.

CARES Act § 1113(b) [192] also prevents current chapter 13 cases from failing by permitting debtors to extend the term of their plans in order to have additional time to pay critical debts. Many debtors will lose income and not be able to stay current with plan payments. While courts will likely suspend payments during the crisis in any event, existing law would not have permitted debtors to extend their plans beyond a term of five years. If plans could not be extended, many debtors would not be able to cure mortgage defaults, pay car loans and other secured debt, or pay priority claims such as tax obligations and child support. CARES Act § 1113(b) [192] permits a debtor who has experienced a material financial hardship due, directly or indirectly, to the COVID-19 pandemic to seek a modification of the plan that will extend the period of time for payments on claims for up to seven years after the date the first payment was due after plan confirmation. This provision applies to any chapter 13 case in which the plan was confirmed before enactment of the CARES Act.

The provisions described above will sunset one year after enactment.

U.S. Trustee Program Notice to Chapter 7 and 13 Trustees Regarding Recovery Rebates Paid to Consumer Bankruptcy Debtors [193] (April 7, 2020) affirming that stimulus payments should not be included in the calculation of current monthly income or projected disposable income, and in a chapter 7 filed on or after March 27, 2020, the U.S. Trustee expects that it is highly unlikely that the trustee would administer the payment. For chapter 13 cases filed before March 27, 2020, the recovery rebate is excluded from that analysis because it would not have been available for payment to creditors in a chapter 7 case.

U.S. Trustee Program Notice on Continuance of Section 341 Meetings [194] (March 16, 2020): “Effective immediately, all in-person chapter 7, 12, and 13 section 341 meetings scheduled through April 10, 2020, are hereby continued until a later date to be determined. Absent special circumstances, section 341 meetings may not proceed during this period except through telephonic or other alternative means not requiring personal appearance by debtors. Appropriate notice will be provided to parties in accordance with bankruptcy law and rules. Meetings already noticed as telephonic meetings may proceed as scheduled.”

U.S. Trustees Office re Audits [195]: Effective immediately, the USTP is suspending its designation of new individual chapter 7 and chapter 13 cases subject to audit for an indefinite period.

Fair Credit Reporting

CARES Act § 4021 [196] provides less than minimal protections regarding credit reporting. From January 31, 2020 until 120 days after the end of the national state of emergency, if a creditor has made an accommodation (such as a forbearance or workout) for a consumer pursuant to the state of emergency, the creditor shall report that account with the same status as prior to the accommodation to a consumer reporting agency. That is, if an account was current it shall continue to be reported as current, while a delinquent account shall continue be reported as delinquent. The exceptions are (1) the provision does not apply to charged-off accounts and (2) if the account was delinquent and the consumer manages to bring the account current during the period of accommodation, the account shall be reported as current.
Free credit reports [197]: The major 3 credit reporting agencies, Equifax, TransUnion, and Experian, are offering free weekly credit reports through April 2021.

Stopping Automatic Payments from Bank Account

When cash is tight, payments that are automatically deducted from a consumer’s bank account may not be the most important bills to pay. Instead the consumer may want to stop those payments and save the money for critical needs. This information from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau [198] including sample letters which may prove helpful in stopping automatic payments.

Insurance Premiums

New Jersey: Governor’s Executive Order 123 [199] (April 9, 2020) suspends cancellation of all forms of insurance coverage for non-payment at least for ninety days (sixty days for health and dental insurance).

Health Insurance Coverage and Limits on Surprise Billing

State Actions re Insurance Coverage: The Commonwealth Fund [200] is keeping track of state actions related to private insurers’ coverage of COVID-19 critical services.

Surprise Out-of-Network Charges: The Kaiser Foundation [201] has analyzed HHS guidance [202] to providers relating to the CARES Act and indicates it bans providers from engaging in surprise billing during the emergency.
